

John Berry, Jr. – 2010 Hall of Fame Inductee

John Berry, Jr. was arguably one of the greatest high school wrestling coaches Idaho has ever seen. John served as the head coach at Sugar-Salem High School for thirty years, from 1976-2006. Over those three decades he coached ten state championship teams, fifty-eight individual wrestling champions, and amassed a dual record of 434 wins – 42 losses. John worked tirelessly to build a tradition of excellence within Sugar-Salem's wrestling program.

John was honored on numerous occasions for his dedication and service including being awarded State Wrestling Coach of the Year twelve times, receiving the Gary Comstock Award six times, receiving the Keith Williams Award six times, and being inducted into both the Idaho Wrestling Hall of Fame and the National Wrestling Hall of Fame in 2009.
